October 2013

Happy October!

As the leaves turn and the temperature falls, we are fully into the school year. This week we held our parent/teacher conferences, so you've been able to see how much the children have accomplished in their first two months. Imagine what is to come!

Speaking of imagination, as you know, we are inviting children to dress up for our Imagination parties next week. Each school is doing something a little different -- the information about your own school's event should have been in the October newsletter from your director; if you're unsure of the details, speak to your teacher or director. For those of you who will be taking part in Halloween activities, we hope you have a wonderful -- and safe! -- time. Just a reminder: please do not send in extra candy with the little ones in their lunches. If you're looking for things to do with all that candy (other than eat it, an issue some of us here might have as well), check out this article from Boston Magazine last year.

As always, please also feel free to be in touch with us directly if you have any additional questions or comments, or would like to talk further about anything.

Best,

Emma, Brid, and all of your friends at Pine Village
